5. How long does it take to be called for interview after registration process at PSC?

There is no specific duration between registration and interview, all data will be kept in PSC's Data Bank. The selection process will be done only if PSC received request from Ministry/ Department to fill up vacancies. Candidates who fulfilled the requirement will be called for exam/interview based on the positions applied.

6. Why did I fail in my interview?

Most candidates are unsuccessful due to their poor performance in interview session. For instance, there were candidates who did not prepare well physically, lack of knowledge on the job applied, did not bring complete documents, lack of personalities and other criteria. Board of Interview is represented by experienced officers and those who have vast knowledge and able to match the right candidates with the right job.

7. Why am I not in the list to be called for the interview?

Among the reasons why applicants are not called for the interview are not fulfilling the requirement and failed the special exam for the posts. For instance, candidates who are given priority for paramedic posts are those who have at least credits in subjects such as Bahasa Malaysia, English, Science and Mathematics. This is to ensure that the candidates will be able to undergo the training which emphasized on those relevant skills.

8. Will the candidates be called for interview based on the date of registration? Is a candidate who registered earlier been given priority to be interviewed?

All applications received after the closing date will be processed accordingly. Candidates who fulfilled the requirements will be called for the interview regardless of the date of registration.

9. I am a Diploma holder. Do I need to bring along my Diploma and transcripts during an interview even though the position only requires SPM?

Candidates must bring along his/her Diploma and transcripts during interview even though he/she is attending interview that only requires SPM. Candidates are required to bring along all academic qualifications during interview such as stated in the Call for Interview letter.
